Â

After working for many years in one of the Montreal areas most respected VW/Audi independant repair shops, in which he went from apprentice to a highly skilled automotive technician, Daniel Theriault founded HT turbotech. This was not an easy decision to make but with always wanting to expand his knowledge and to go out on his own, he started out in a small 800sq foot location in 2004. HT turbotech soon outgrew that location due to the quickly growing number of customers. It moved to a 1800sq foot location in Les Cedres, Qc but that was soon too small. In 2006 HT turbotech relocated to its current 2800sq foot location in Brossard, QC to better serve its customers.

Daniel spent his early years in the trade learning everything he could from some of Montreal areas best technicians. These early years gave him a very strong base of automotive troubleshooting and maintenance procedures. Always wanting to learn more he would spend weekends helping out with different forms of motorsports. He would also spend countless hours reading up on the latest automotive news, be it new products or the latest motorsport innovations. All of this is what makes Daniel one of Montreal's premier VW/Audi technicians.

Over the years HT turbotech has assembled a great team and its mission is to provide the best quality work and parts for its customers so that they can get the most out of their vehicle. The work and parts are provided at competitive prices without compromising the commitment to quality that the team strives for.
